New Series from Berghahn Books

Sport Matters

Series Editor:

Alan Klein, Professor Emeritus, Northeastern University

Editorial Board:

Susan Brownell, University of Missouri, Paul Darby, University of Ulster, David Hollander, New York University

The role of sport in our world is undeniable, and understanding to what degree it reflects or obscures that world is increasingly valuable. Sport Matters features works that use sport to illuminate social and cultural issues that include, but are not limited to globalization, nationalism, migration, gender, labor rights. While Sport Matters is a series drawing on all of social sciences, it centers on works that are grounded in ethnography in its broadest sense. Sport Matters also looks to serve as a meeting place for different disciplinary orientations to the study of sport.

Submissions

All submissions to this series, as well as any queries about the formal procedure, should be sent to Berghahn Books at editorialUS@berghahnbooks.com

NASSS Night at the Movies:

Film Premiere & Panel

'Willie'

4:15 – 6:00pm

Room: Salon ABC

Willie O'Ree changed hockey forever on Jan. 18, 1958.

In the midst of America's tumultuous fight to end Jim Crow and the birth of the civil rights movement, Willie - the descendant of escaped slaves - became the first black player to skate in a National Hockey League game.

He was blind in one eye – an extraordinary secret that only his sister knew. He played 45 games in the NHL and then 22 years of minor league hockey. Later, Willie sold cars, managed fast food restaurants, and worked security at a hotel. When he was asked to become the NHL's diversity ambassador in 1994, he was 60 years old. He took the job, and he has never stopped.

Now, 60 years after Willie broke the NHL's color barrier, a grassroots movement is working to get him into the Hockey Hall of Fame. Will he also break this barrier? "Willie" provides historical context and depth to O'Ree's incredible journey. The film is a testament to the resilience and determination of a man empowered by his family's legacy, and the people he has inspired along the way.

His work is not done.

Waneek Horn-Miller

Title: From Oka to the Sydney Olympics and Beyond: The Journey of an Indigenous Olympian

Introductions & moderator:
Vicky Paraschak

Few people can claim to have a story even close to as incredible as that of Waneek Horn-Miller. While protesting the infamous Oka Crisis, teenage Mohawk Waneek – from Kahnawake Mohawk Territory – was stabbed in the heart by a Canadian soldier, and almost died. She fought for recovery and emerged with a mission – and PTSD – to fight for what’s right and be a leader not only for her community, but for the global community. Waneek became a champion swimmer, representing Canada at the Olympics, and took home the gold at the 1999 PanAm Games. Now she channels this spirit of perseverance and resilience into advocacy; once again turning trials into triumphs, Waneek is one of the most vibrant and powerful Indigenous advocates today. Waneek traces her incredible path and shows how fighting for justice, even in the face of intimidating odds, can unlock your full potential.

Shireen Ahmed is a multi-platform Senior Contributor with CBC Sports, a TEDx speaker, valued mentor, and award-winning sports activist who focuses on the intersections of racism and misogyny in sports. She is a global expert on Muslim women in sport. Shireen is the co-creator and co-host of the “Burn It All Down” feminist sports podcast team, and teaches Sports Journalism and Sports Media at X University, in Toronto, Canada. She lives with her children and her cat.

Johanna Mellis

Title: ‘In the Arena’: Public Scholarship, Risks, and Collective Resistance to Harassment

Johanna Mellis is an Assistant Professor of World History at Ursinus College outside of Philadelphia. A former D1 swimmer and club coach, she is also a co-host of the End of Sport podcast with Nathan Kalman-Lamb and Derek Silva. Her research examines how Hungarian athletes changed global Cold War sport by navigating the overlapping systems of Olympic cultural imperialism and state socialism. She has co-written pieces for the Washington Post, the Guardian, LA Times, Time, and more. Ursinus College recognized her as a ‘game changer’ in summer 2021 for her public scholarship.

Gary Sailes Graduate Diversity Scholarship

Gary “Doc” Sailes is an award-winning professor at Indiana University. He is widely recognized for his research and advocacy on collegiate sport access and Critical Race Theory. A champion of student-athlete development, Dr. Sailes has led Congressional hearings, and presented to the International Olympic Congress on abuses in college athletics and the value of diversity across sport. A recipient of the 2011 NASSS Distinguished Service Award, “Doc” continues his support of the NASSS community by bestowing resources that annually fund the Graduate Diversity Scholarship.

In recognition of the recommendation made by the Racial Diversity Committee in the fall of 2003, the NASSS Conference Program Committee has implemented a scholarship for a graduate student who is a member of a racial or ethnic “minority” group. The purpose of the scholarship is to create a mechanism to identify racial and/or ethnic “minority” graduate students who are doing research in the area of sport sociology, and to provide a means of supporting their work and association with NASSS. The award is for $500 to be applied toward expenses associated with attendance at the NASSS annual conference.

Barbara Brown Outstanding Student Paper Award

Barbara A. Brown was a professor of sport sociology at the University of Western Ontario from 1983 until 1990, when she died of cancer at the age of forty. Dr. Brown, who was President-Elect of NASSS at the time of her death, was widely recognized for her expertise on women in sport and leisure, her political commitment to extending girls' and women's opportunities for participation in sport, and her contributions to the development of a professional community of sport sociologists. She was also a dedicated mentor and teacher whose invaluable work with students is appropriately memorialized in the naming of this award for her.

Alan Ingham Memorial Lecture Speakers

Alan Ingham worked for much of his academic career at Miami University in Ohio as Professor in Sport Studies, before passing away in 2005. His research and teaching both emphasized the ideals of social justice, and he was among the first scholars to apply a critical perspective to the sociology of sport. His seminal textbook co-edited with John Loy - Sport in Social Development: Traditions, Transitions and Transformations - became and remained for some time, a go-to text for all undergraduate students in our field, and not just in North America. He also contributed to the early literature on the cultural studies of sport and physical activity, and earned an international reputation for his advocacy of interdisciplinary approaches to sport and physical culture. This memorial lecture, presented annually at each NASSS conference, commenced in 2006, and helps to celebrate his legacy.
